

Lamisha I. Davis
PFC, USA
AFN Bavaria Broadcast Journalist

PFC Lamisha Davis is assigned to the American Network Forces Bavaria as a broadcast journalist as of May, 2009.

Within eight months of being assigned to AFN Bavaria, PFC Davis took over as host of the afternoon radio show, earned her certification in radio broadcasting and took on the demanding duty of morning show host, served as Radio News Chief, and hosted numerous live radio remote broadcasts. She writes, edits, and supervises the production of all AFN Bavaria radio news stories that air on locally, and Europe-wide. PFC Davis has also reported on, written, and produced two TV feature stories. One of them was sent to all stations by the AFNE Broadcast Operations Manager as an example of a creative way to tell a story using entertaining stand-ups and dynamic interaction with the story's subjects. PFC Davis also conducts interviews on a regular basis with higher officials and unit commanders, including a One-Star General who presented her with a coin. She has also won the Soldier of the Quarter award and Product of the Quarter award for a radio spot she produced.

During spare time, PFC Davis volunteers as the pianist and Assistant Music Director at the Post Chapel. She is currently organizing piano lessons for children and adults in the Vilseck community. PFC Davis also enjoys cooking meals for new Soldiers, introducing them to other Soldiers and offering assistance on how to purchase internet and phone contracts.

PFC Davis' Military training consists of Basic Combat Training at Fort Jackson, South Carolina and Advanced Individual Training at the Defense Information School at Fort Meade, Maryland. PFC Davis has completed one year at Anne Arundel Community College towards a B.A. in Communications.

PFC Davis is originally from Kansas City, Missouri but hails from Baltimore, Maryland. She is one of seven children and the first in her family to join the military.

Her personal interests include playing the piano, traveling, public speaking, giving music lessons, directing choirs, and watching historically accurate war movies.

PFC Davis's short term goals are to score a 300 or higher on the Army Physical Fitness Test and continue to help the community through volunteer work. She also plans to enroll in college courses through the University of Maryland University College-Europe to complete her degree in Communications.

Her long terms goals are to become an accomplished AFN broadcast journalist and Soldier. PFC Davis hopes to serve downrange advance her tactical skills and camaraderie. She also has her heart set on becoming a drill sergeant. Overall, PFC Davis hopes to make a positive impact on Soldiers and strive to be a good example everyday.

PFC Davis joined the Army to make a difference in her life as well as in others. She is proud of her decision and works hard to contribute to our mission, and improve the well-being of her fellow Soldiers. She believes she was made to be a soldier in every way.
